Pray to Mary Immaculate Patroness of the United States for the strength of mind and heart to defend our religious freedoms, for national moral guidance, and that our country will always be "one nation under God". This is critically important in this time of contrary moral agendas and the threats from patently evil elements.

President's Corner

Brothers all - Happy St. Patrick's Day! In addition to this one day of the year that all of the world celebrates because "everyone's Irish on St. Patrick's Day", March is traditionally recognized in the U.S. as Irish American Heritage Month (IAHM). Our Division has an annual tradition of setting up displays and scheduling special cultural events at our local libraries. If you can help man one or more of these library events, please let Brother Shawn Lenahan know as soon as possible by responding to his recent email message.

As was noted in the last Dispatch, we were honored to serve as the host Division for the State Quarterly Meeting on 26 Feb at St. Jude Church. Many thanks to Shawn Lenahan, Dennis O'Leary, Jack Kelly, Jeff Everett, Bill Halpin, and Deacon Aaron for helping to plan the event, get the food and drinks, set up the room, participate in the meeting, and then hang around to help clean up after this successful event. Deacon Aaron received special praise and appreciation from the State President and all attendees for his thoughtful reflection on this weekend before the start of Lent.

A topic of discussion during the Quarterly Meeting was the need for all Brother Hibernians to get the Shamrock Degree at their local Divisions as well as the Major Degrees at one of the Quarterly Meetings as soon as they can so they can fully understand what it means to be a Hibernian. Not enough candidates responded to the call for candidates for the Major Degree at this latest Quarterly Meeting, so please keep this in mind for the next Quarterly Meeting which is tentatively scheduled for May. I will broadcast the details when I get them so you can add it to your calendar. Meanwhile, I would like to schedule a Shamrock Degree for our Division at the 17 May meeting before we all begin our summer vacations. We will be sending out notices to all brothers who do not yet have the Shamrock Degree so keep an eye on your email inbox for an announcement so you can get it on your calendars now.

In this time of uncertainty around the world, please remember to pray for all of our Brother Hibernians, our friends and families, and all those who are suffering.

In our motto of Friendship, Unity, and Christian Charity,

Bob Fitzgerald, President

John Hogan, Colonel, U.S. Air Force (ret.)
8 April 1940 – 14 February 2022

Born and raised in Boston, Boston College class of '63, USAF twenty-five years, Viet Nam Veteran, devout Catholic and outstanding example of Hibernian zeal.

John was a Hibernian's Hibernian, always ready and willing to support the General Meagher Division in so many ways, it would be difficult to list all. Suffice it to say that if there was a task to be accomplished, a Hibernian presence required, a leadership challenge to overcome, John was always present for duty. It didn't matter where or when: Hibernian day trips and luncheons, celebrating IAHM at area libraries, presenting wreaths at Irish brigade memorials, as parish liaison, at annual golf tourneys, parish festivals, selling T4T raffle tickets at every TFM division parish.

John's accomplishments were recognized when he was voted to be the General Meagher Division Hibernian of the Year in 2015.

John died at 6:20AM on Monday 14 February after a lengthy illness. John was buried in his green jacket and tri-color sash. He asked that green jacketed Hibernians be the pallbearers at his funeral. His presence and energy will be missed.

Funeral Pall Bearers were: Frank Connors Bill Halpin, Jack Kelly, Shawn Lenahan, Mulhern and John Newsome. Bill Halpin, John Newsome and Jake Ruppert were Hibernian pall bearers at the Culpeper National Cemetery

Irish American Heritage Month

Now we're about to enter the second week of Irish American Heritage Month. The Commonwealth Governor's office has assured me he'll proclaim March to be Irish American Heritage Month.

Bill Temple and Bill Halpin represented the division at the main library (CRRL) for three days with Irish heritage displays and numerous handouts. Library patron traffic was much lower than past years. The library staff attributed it to "virus hangover". On March 2d, Muggivan Irish dancers performed in the library auditorium. The Muggivan spokesperson explained the selected dance routines including the history of each dance and the type shoes traditional Irish dancers use to create sound. The dancers wore shoes that would not scar the wooden stage floor. When their routines were complete the dancers finished the performance with a fun session for the children in the audience.

The Best Irish Pub In Virginia: The Celtic House Irish Pub & Restaurant

(This according to Courtney Iseman of Delish Magazine)

The two owners of The Celtic House in Arlington have 100 years of experience in hospitality in the United States and Ireland. In other words, these folks know what they're doing and that's reflected in this pub's welcoming atmosphere, drink selection, and Irish fare. This spot is so well-loved that patrons have voted it their favorite pub in the state and one of the best pubs in 19 big U.S. cities. Where to find it: 2500 Columbia Pike, Arlington, VA, 22204

BUT ... What do they know?

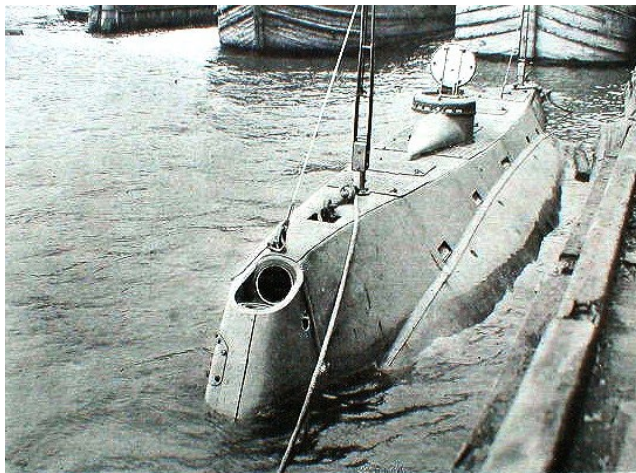

The Celt would forfeit his title to the respect of the civilized world, did he not fight with all his heart and all his soul and all his cunning against the empire which has despoiled him and murdered his kin, now with arms, now with artificial famine. There can be no peace between the two people until either Ireland is a desert or is free. There can be neither truce nor compromise.

The Irishman Who Invented the Submarine

(Adapted from an article by Teresa O’Dea Hein, August 12, 2014)

John Phillip Holland

USS Holland, first USN submarine. Both Photos: Wikipedia

John Philip Holland, a Clare man recognized as “the father of the modern submarine.” Much of Holland’s pioneering work on submarines was done after he emigrated to the United States in 1873.

Despite many challenging times and rough currents, Holland persevered for decades to perfect his vision of a submersible craft. For all his life, the sea was an essential element of Holland’s life. It started with his father, John Holland, who patrolled the headlands of Clare as a “riding officer,” essentially a roving coastal patrolman with the British Coastguard Service. Holland was born on the wild Atlantic coastline of Liscannor, just north of Lahinch. Holland attended the Christian Brothers School (C.B.S.) in the nearby town of Ennistymon.

In 1852, his father retired and the family moved to Limerick where Holland studied at the Limerick C.B.S. Later he taught in a number of Christian Brothers schools in Ireland and ultimately joined the Christian Brothers and took the name of Brother Philip.

On Nov. 3, 1858, Brother Philip was assigned to the North Monastery school in Cork where he met Brother James Dominic Burke, a Limerick man, noted science teacher and founder of vocational training in Ireland. Burke encouraged Holland in his plans for a submarine and as early as 1859, he completed his first drafts of a sub, a design he never radically changed. Over the years, the inventive Holland built a number of useful items at the schools where he taught.

Ill health later forced him to leave the Christian Brothers in 1873. By then, Holland's mother and two brothers had emigrated to Boston. He booked passage – in steerage – to meet them there and worked for a time with an engineering firm. Ultimately, Holland joined St. John's Parochial School in Paterson, N.J., as a lay teacher again under the auspices of the Christian Brothers.

Funding for development of the submarine was provided by Holland's brother, Michael, who was involved with the Fenian Movement. The Fenians and the inventor teamed up in an effort to build a submarine to use against the British Navy. The Fenian Ram, designed for the Fenian Brotherhood, was launched in 1881. It was funded by the Fenian Skirmishing Fund.

Throughout the next two decades, Holland worked with several corporate backers to advance submarine prototypes. Successes he achieved were accompanied by financial and bureaucratic struggles. On St. Patrick's Day 1898 Holland's first full-fledged trial run of diving and surfacing while underway off Staten Island in his Holland VI was successful.

A demonstration 10 days later for the U.S. Navy convinced Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt to recommend the purchase of a Holland submarine.

On April 11, 1900, the date now celebrated as the birthday of the U.S. Submarine Force, the Navy bought Holland VI—for $150,000, just half of its design cost. The Navy quickly ordered seven more and on October 12, 1900, the Navy's first submarine was officially commissioned as USS Holland (later SS-1). The 53-ft.-long submersible incorporated the design principles validated in the Fenian Ram and became the prototype for virtually all modern submarines. Over the years, the U.S. Navy has named two submarine tenders for John Holland: USS Holland (AS-3), commissioned in 1926; and a second USS Holland (AS-32), commissioned in 1963.

Holland died at the age of 73 and is buried in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Totowa, N.J., just a mile from the Passaic River where he first tested Holland I in 1878. His gravestone includes a sculptural version of this iconic photo – characterized by his walrus mustache and bowler hat as he emerged from the Holland VI.

In 1964, a plaque was erected in Liscannor commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of his death. Castle Street has also been renamed Holland Street in his honor. (Photo from Wikipedia)
